MISSION

Samaritan Ministry of Greater Washington is a community partnership bringing together homeless people and others in need in greater Washington, D.C. with support and volunteers from over 40 Episcopal and other churches, in a joint effort to improve the lives of everybody involved. We pursue this goal by:

- Promoting awareness of community needs,
- Fostering partnerships at all levels,
- Breaking down barriers imposed by poverty, and
- Developing participants' abilities to help themselves to better lives.

WHAT WE BELIEVE

The following core values reflect the essential and enduring tenets and philosophy of our work together. They are the basis for our mission and for all our goals and activities. They are the principles that unite us with one another—program participants, volunteers, staff and partners.

God's Love – We believe that we are called to love our neighbors as God loves us, with kindness and compassion, sharing one another's suffering and joy, and treating each other as we would like to be treated.

Dignity – We believe that we are called to honor the dignity of all persons, promoting each other's self-respect and self-confidence, celebrating our shared humanity, and rejoicing in the journey that binds us together.

Transformation – We believe that we are called to be a part of one another's transformation in ways that encourage each other's strengths and abilities, bringing positive, life-enhancing changes, and empowering each other to lead fuller lives.

Partnership – We believe that we are called to work in partnership with others both inside and outside our organization, embracing diversity, holding ourselves accountable to one another and, thus accomplishing more together than we can do alone.

DEAR FRIENDS,

It's hard to imagine a better year for Samaritan Ministry! Here are just a few of the highlights that made this year so extraordinary:

- Next Step Program participation grew by 28 percent and new program initiatives expanded our services and work with other social service agencies. Former intern caseworker Catherine Rodman became our new Program Coordinator.
- Our Homeless Awareness Arts and Poetry Contest drew many student contestants, with winning entries exhibited at the Washington National Cathedral, the Fannie Mae Charity Auction and in area churches, schools and galleries.
- Outreach to schools through the Help the Homeless Walkathon and service learning programs greatly expanded our involvement with young people. A record number (more than 1,700) walked for us in the Walkathon and mini-walks.
- Our autumn 20th Anniversary Service and Picnic at the Cathedral brought together staff, volunteers, bishops from both dioceses, Partner Parishes, program participants and other supporters in a warm, wonderful celebration of our first two decades.
- New come-and-see events, called Next Step Experiences, have been a terrific way of introducing newcomers to Samaritan Ministry and of reminding and inspiring current supporters about our mission and work. Our Spamalot theater benefit introduced others to Samaritan Ministry (and was a lot of fun too).
- We achieved all this with a balanced budget thanks to careful management and the generosity of many donors.
- As we go to press in September, several events since the end of our fiscal year in March bear mention:
 - Our first ever Next Step Breakfast in May generated gifts and pledges of more than $400,000 over the next five years.
 - We thank Jeff Landis, Chuck James and Keyana Pokorny for their time here as they take their own next steps to new jobs, and Annette Carver, who served at Samaritan Ministry for more than 18 years before moving to the D.C. Department of Human Services this summer.
 - We welcome new Administrative Manager Mildred Millien, new Director of Communications and Volunteers Dianne Lewis, and new Lead Caseworker Julia Clark.

Thanks to all of you who made this year so very successful!

Yours faithfully,

David Downes
Executive Director

LOVE THAT CHANGES LIVES

“It takes a lot off of a problem when someone is there to shoulder the problem with you.”

– Darlene, Next Step participant

Walking down the hallway one hears program participants Darlene and Ron talking in the next room like old friends, updating each other on their last jobs. They are sitting at computers filling out employment applications and writing resumes when the lead caseworker at the Northwest office, Annette Carver, pops her head in to let them know about the St. Alban’s lunch program and another website they can explore before they leave. The camaraderie these participants share feels a lot like a family. That is what you find at Samaritan Ministry every day. Just ask Darlene. “You can feel the help when you walk in the door. I have been coming here since 1991, and that is why—the love,” said Darlene.

Darlene’s relationship with Samaritan Ministry began after she lost her job and home and didn’t know which way to go. Darlene came to the Northwest office and talked to a caseworker about her needs and how she could meet them. As Darlene tells it, when she left that day she had a shelter to go to and job applications to fill out.

“It takes a lot off of a problem when someone is there to shoulder the problem with you,” said Darlene. “It helps to know that someone wants to be a part of solving your problems and believes in you to find solutions.”

Fifteen years after her initial visit and many successes, Samaritan Ministry is still helping Darlene make steps toward a better job. By the time Darlene leaves the office today she will have completed at least two employment applications and updated her resume.

Volunteer caseworker Peter Spalding talks with a Next Step Program participant.

Maintaining relationships with participants such as Darlene and Ron is important. Samaritan Ministry is not a one-time “fix-all” organization. Ron’s continuing story with Samaritan Ministry is proof of that. Since 1990, caseworkers have helped him through several jobs.

“Samaritan Ministry stays with you and they know that just because you get a job doesn’t mean all your problems are over,” said Ron. “I keep coming back, sometimes to use the computer, sometimes to just talk to the people.”

Every time Ron comes back he takes a stack of Samaritan Ministry business cards. “I hand them out to people that I think would use them who are ready to better their lives,” said Ron. “You owe it to the people who’ve helped you to pass on the help you’ve received.”

People helping people. The core of Samaritan Ministry is love; it’s hard to explain, but you feel it in the lives of our program participants. It’s that love that is changing lives.

THE NEXT STEP PROGRAM: A YEAR TO GROW

Helping program participants requires many different elements. Across the last year, some new opportunities were created and others expanded in order to meet the growing demand for Samaritan Ministry's Next Step Program. Here are a few program highlights of the last year:

- Partnership with Meal Programs. We are currently working with four partner parishes (St. George's, St. Stephen and the Incarnation, St. Margaret's and St. Augustine's) that have established meal programs. Volunteers have been trained to speak with guests at meal programs to help them take advantage of the Next Step Program and other services offered by Samaritan Ministry.
- Off-Site Employment Workshops. We have partnered with several residential programs (Doorways for Women and Families, Residential Program Center, Community Care Halfway House, Molumba House, Transitional Housing Corporation and Catholic Charities' 801 Housing Assistance Center) to present employment workshops to residents. The preliminary results of these efforts are promising. To date, 57 participants have attended off-site employment workshops. Fifteen of these workshop attendees subsequently came to Samaritan Ministry for additional services, and seven of these participants completed resumes.
- Job Fairs. In partnership with other service providers, we conducted job fairs in Southeast and Northwest D.C. where over 800 people met potential employers, obtained information from agencies offering employment services and career training, practiced interviewing and attended break-out sessions.
- Mock Interviews. In partnership with Deloitte and Touche, we implemented a new mock interview service, where participants participate in a practice interview in a professional setting that closely resembles a real interview. Participants then receive constructive feedback on the interview.
- Computer Mentoring. Last year, we implemented a one-on-one computer mentoring service. Standard materials were created for mentors to help participants learn how to use a mouse, navigate the Internet, use email, and do on-line job searches.

HIV/AIDS SERVICES

Retreats: 131 retreatants (four retreats annually)

Roundup Dinners (monthly meetings): 60 participants

Burial Assistance: 130 families

Bereavement Support: 191 individuals

COMPASSION: THE CATALYST FOR VOLUNTEERS

Have you ever thought about the power of compassion, a feeling and an act so profound that it is almost inconceivable? By practicing compassion this past year, our 4,658 volunteers who donated over 22,780 hours of service transformed themselves and those around them.

Alicia Partnoy of Amnesty International USA says that compassion is commonly misunderstood to mean simply “to feel or suffer with the other; to show mercy.” She has learned from her own experience that simply “feeling another’s pain helps no one.” For someone in need, people “suffering with them is less helpful than helping the person achieve their goals.” There is no doubt that when compassion is equated only with mercy and pity and is absent of action, the meaning is robbed of its depth and power. The power of compassion comes from action. Our volunteers understand that they cannot remain unengaged in the needs of others.

How does that work in practice? By looking at the needs of program participants and doing all we can to meet their needs, our lives can be transformed. So, it should be said, can the lives of those we help.

This past year, Samaritan Ministry volunteers increased donated hours of specialized services by 54 percent. These are the volunteers who work with our program participants as employment workshop leaders, resume writers, benefit coordinators and caseworkers. These are also the volunteers that help Samaritan Ministry as a videographer, photographer, web designer, or staff development speaker. Each volunteer is a catalyst for change.

A YEAR OF ABUNDANCE

Partnerships and God's Love (two of our core values) are attributed for the financial successes we experienced last year. A challenging budget of $984,943 was set, an increase of more than $150,000 from the previous year, necessary to cover our growing program.

Samaritan Ministry received significant financial support from our many partners including foundations, Partner Parishes, corporations, churches, other organizations, individuals, some government support for our HIV/AIDS services, and a significant one-time grant from the Family Services Administration. This grant was unexpected and truly evidence of God's love and commitment to this community.

We are grateful to the hundreds of people who joined the Friends of Samaritan Ministry, partnering with us through the Fannie Mae Foundation's Help the Homeless Walkathon raising more than ever before for Samaritan Ministry.

We continued our initiative to invite new people to learn about our programs through our monthly informational and inspirational events called Next Step Experiences held at our offices. We also began to hold On the Road Next Step Experiences at our Partner Parishes. (To learn more, see our website at www.samaritanministry.org.)

Throughout the year, our efforts focused on increasing our individual giving. Seven Board members, staff, and volunteers attended a two-day fundraising training program and coordinated our major fundraising event, the Next Step Breakfast, held at the National Press Club in May 2007.

Staff, the board of directors, the fundraising committee, and scores of other volunteers worked together to raise support for Samaritan Ministry. It was a year of many fundraising events including the most successful gala in our history, Spamalot at the National Theatre, and the Thomas Circle Singers Concert at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. We ended the year having raised more than one million dollars.

FINANCES

Fiscal Year 2007 was another very successful year financially for Samaritan Ministry due to the generosity of our many supporters. Our income rose by nearly 20%, in large part because of a grant from the Family Services Administration of the D.C. government's Department of Human Services which allowed us to expand our Next Step Program.

However, we also continued to maintain a diverse range of revenue sources including Partner Parishes, individuals, foundations, other organizations, government and special events. We kept administration and fundraising costs down to only 17% of overall expenses.

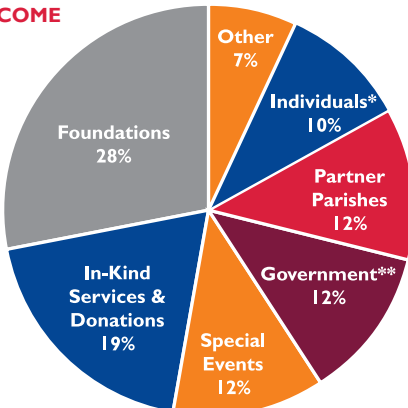

If you have any questions about our finances or if you would like to receive a complete copy of our audited financial statements, contact the Executive Director at 202-722-2280 or by email at info@samaritanministry.org.
